Introduction

Young Veterans are returning with trauma. Can emerging technology help identify people who need support earlier?

universalmind

Mission

Universal Mind is exploring whether advances in computer vision, systems biology & privacy preserving AI can assist clinicians in identifying people who may benefit from earlier mental health support.

Beyond questionnaires, self-reporting and clinical observation, Universal Mind is exploring whether emerging technologies can provide additional signals for earlier mental-health support.

Next Steps ➔ Research Focus:

Exploring whether non-invasive computer vision + systems biology can facilitate inference of gene expression and biological signals associated with mental health, ethically, privately and with human in the loop.
