Welcome to Universal Mind and our I AM project. I Am is an invitation to make mental health feel as natural, beautiful and culturally relevant as fashion and music, for young people, primarily aged 16-24.

Rather than asking young people to visit another mental health website, I Am brings support into the digital spaces they already love. Visitors can voluntarily check in using simple self-reporting, unlock exclusive creative experiences, and—only with their permission—receive increasingly personalised content, community and support over time. Behind the experience is a privacy-first citizen needs inference engine that combines human self-reporting with modern AI to understand changing needs, not simply detect risk. Every interaction is voluntary, every recommendation is transparent, every conclusion remains uncertain until supported by evidence, and every important decision stays with the human, not the machine. Our ambition is simple: create a world where technology quietly helps people feel more understood, while fashion, music and culture become everyday pathways to better mental health.

Universal Mind's I Am is a transparent piece of technology that integrates with existing youth-focused communities online. We are not another mental health platform or app. We are the invisible layer that helps already trusted youth communities care for their people — with a deliberate focus on music and fashion culture, industries we have spent our careers helping build.

Ben Korbel (Founder + CEO)

bachelor of economics | government relations [university of sydney]

“My passion is music and purpose is mental health.”

In 2001 Ben Korbel was voted Australia’s #1 DJ and then spent a decade working and performing in Ibiza. Ben owned and was managing director of multiple national youth music festivals for upwards of 60,000 people. He co-founded creativity schools for at risk youth and owned digital agencies. Ben volunteered running electronic music making and meditation programs for homeless youth.

Ben is now building Universal Mind, an entertainment, technology and mental health company, together as one.

For nearly twenty, years Ben Korbel has been observing the intersection of music, culture, technology and mental health. The technologies have changed, but the mission remains the same: can we use technology to better understand people and connect them with more meaningful support?
